

SHIP MEAT TO CITY

Country Butchers Complain Inspection Rules Destroy Their Salt Lake Trade.

ONLY REMEDY EXPENSIVE VETERINARIANS WOULD COST STATE $120,000 ANNUALLY.

As a result of the putting into operation this month of the provisions of Salt Lake's new meat inspection ordinance, requiring the inspection of all meat coming into the city, there is quite a clamor among some of the shipper in other parts of the state who have been sending their meat to Salt Lake. Some of these have made complaint to Willard Hanson, state dairy and food commissioner, this week, asking him to make an effort to get a system of inspection for their meat which will allow them to keep up the shipments to this city.

Most of these people have not the necessary amount of business to permit of their getting government inspection, and they have complained that the law as it now operates destroys their Salt Lake trade. Commissioner Hanson has taken the matter up with the attorney general this week, but as yet a solution has not been reached. The state laws are broad enough to give the state-food bureau the power to provide for the inspection of meat shipped throughout the state, but there is no fund for the employment of the veterinary inspectors that would be needed to inspect the meat shipped to Salt Lake.

Commissioner Hanson estimates that about 100 inspectors would be necessary to cover the state completely, and there would have to be an outlay in salary of about $120,000 a year for each, which would make the expense to the state $120,000 a year.

Some of the outside meat shippers say the law operates in favor of a combination of Salt Lake meat dealers, and have threatened to take steps to have the law changed. Some of the men say they are out of the business of shipping from $1200 to $1500 a month in pork loins and other meats to this city.

Other complaints have been received by the food commissioner that dealers in general merchandise, chiefly foodstuffs, have given short weight. Commissioner Hanson believes the city authorities are the proper ones to deal with such complaints, although the law gives the state food bureau power to act where the supposed weight stated on the package differs from the actual weight.

The commissioner already has taken notice of violations of the law in respect to butter and a few other articles which may lead to prosecution of offenders.

UNIVERSITY NOTES.

When the freshmen appeared on the campus Tuesday morning they were shocked to see the sophomore flag upon the flagpole. Numerous trips were made by the freshmen toward the top of the flagpole, but in vain. The freshmen then procured a long rope and finally beat the pennant from the pole.

The committee consisting of students from the three upper classes will meet Thursday afternoon to discuss campus rules and methods of enforcing them. The Scribble club will hold a meeting this afternoon to decide whether they will join the National Organization of Scribblers.

Students will be given a half holiday today in order to attend the state fair.

Athletic Manager Harold Robinson has arranged an excursion to Logan the coming Saturday for the Utah-Aggle football game. A rate of $2.50 with dinner and baggage until Sunday has been given. The train leaves Saturday morning at 8 o'clock.

The Woman's league, under the direction of Miss Lucy Van Cott, will entertain the Federation of Women's clubs at the University Oct. 22.

The Order of the Glean Tuesday afternoon decided to limit membership to present members. At the next meeting the new members will be voted on. It was decided to give a social on Monday at the first social Miss Nellie Storer, Miss Emma Pendleton, Miss Eleanor Pratt and Miss Vivian Tolhurst will be the hostesses. The organization will give a worthy play about the middle of the school year. The coming week J. Hamlin will speak on parliamentary law.

FRIDAY IS CHILDREN'S DAY AT THE STATE FAIR

There will not be a public school open in Salt Lake City on Friday, which will be children's day at the state fair. The faculty of the University of Utah has declared a half holiday on Wednesday afternoon to give the students an opportunity to visit the fair, but the public school children will get out all day Friday. This will give them a three days' vacation, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Special arrangements will be made by the fair management for the handling of the children.

APPLES FROM PANGUTCH WEIGH THREE POUNDS

Some fine samples of the fruit raised near Pangutch and the Hatchtown reservoir site of the state land board in Garfield county were exhibited yesterday to the land board officers. Apples weighing more than three pounds were shown, besides onions, corn, turnips, potatoes weighing three pounds and more, and cereals. Visitors were much interested in the display.

STATE EXHIBIT MAKE GRAND SHOWING

Five Public-Spirited Men Give $1,000 Each for Exhibit at Chicago Exposition.

GOV. SPRY HEADS THE LIST AGRICULTURE AND HORTICULTURE TO BE PROMINENT.

Five voluntary contributions of $1,000 each, all coming in less than five minutes' time, electrified a meeting of public-spirited men in the office of Governor Spry yesterday and made certain a Utah exhibit from Utah at the United States Land and Irrigation exposition to be held in the Coliseum at Chicago from Nov. 20 to Dec. 1. Governor Spry started the little burst of generous enthusiasm with an offer of $1,000, and was followed by O. J. Salisbury, George Austin, Thomas R. Cutler, all of Salt Lake, and Mat Browning of Ogden.

There has been a good deal of doubt in regard to a Utah exhibit at the exposition owing to the apathy on the part of a few who had originally interested themselves in the proposition, but the meeting of the state, owing to the fact that the meeting of the cattle men and other conventions will be held in Chicago during this time, which will attract upwards of a million people to Chicago from all parts of the United States.

Nature of Exhibit Unsettled. Just what the Utah exhibit will be is not settled, and a number of meetings will be held in the near future to decide upon this matter. The mining industry will have a place in the exhibit, though not nearly in proportion to agriculture or horticulture. It is along these two lines, it was stated, that Utah needs advertisement, as Utah is little known as a mining state, and little is known of the wonderful possibilities in the state in other lines.

Governor Spry was empowered by the meeting to close a contract with the Chicago Tribune, which is handling the exposition, for $800 fee of floor space in the Coliseum for $1,000. F. H. Griswold of the Chicago Tribune attended the meeting, the second time he has been to Salt Lake on the matter. He declared it to be one of the most enthusiastic and public-spirited meetings he had attended in his travels through the west on the same proposition, and to interest other states in the exposition.

Space Near the Entrance. The floor space set aside for Utah is probably the most advantageous in the Coliseum. It is near the entrance to the Coliseum and will instantly draw the attention of those who enter. It was stated by Mr. Griswold that most other states will be represented in exhibits from real estate men and irrigation concerns, and that Utah would be one of the few which would be represented as a state.

For a time yesterday there was talk pro and con in regard to the exposition. All conceded it would be a good thing, but each time they would up against the financial proposition. One member declared Utah was regarded as a mining state, "with lots of Mormons." In the east, and that this impression should be altered, to let the whole country know of the agricultural and horticultural possibilities of the state.

Spry Starts Ball Rolling. "The east doesn't know what we of Utah can do in agriculture and horticulture," said Governor Spry finally. "And with this exhibit we propose to inform them. Utah has not been advertised abroad. We have made a flurry at home, but that is all, and the time is ripe when we should go out and show the country what we can do in all lines. The proposition is to get before the people as a whole the wonderful climatic conditions in the state, the chance in agriculture and horticulture which await them, and the fact that this is really the only country in which to live. We can not better advertise our state than in this proposition. Gentlemen, I want to put myself forward for $1,000 to insure a grand Utah exhibit at Chicago."

Others Quickly Followed. For a moment there was no word, and then the four others—Mat Browning, T. R. Cutler, O. J. Salisbury and George Austin—also put their names down for $1,000 each. This completed the $5,000 necessary for a large Utah exhibit, but other also volunteered. It is probable several will go on each note for $1,000 and thus make the contributions more generous. It is likely that the state will refund the $5,000 used for this purpose, but it cannot be returned for another two years at least.

Cases used by Utah in the great exhibit at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition at Seattle will be sent at once to Chicago, to be used for the Utah exhibit there, and thus a large item of expense will be avoided. Secretary of State C. S. Tingey, who recently visited Chicago to attend the National Bank Examiners' convention, and at the same time investigated the exposition proposition, talked for some time to the members present in regard to the Utah exhibit. He was of the opinion that Utah could not well afford to miss this opportunity of placing its advantages before the country in general, and declared that $5,000 could be raised in no time. In his judgment, it was in this manner, he said, was the best in the Coliseum, and everything could be shown off to advantage in the space allotted to this state.

Experts to Go to Chicago. Mr. Tingey's idea for the education of the people who will visit the Utah exhibit to have a number of men conversant with facts about Utah's agricultural and horticultural advantages on hand to deliver lectures and to be at the exhibit most of the time to answer questions regarding the state. This was received favorably, and will probably be accepted by the committee. The plan will be worked out later, but it is likely that three or four experts will be sent with the Utah exhibit and will remain there during the exposition. Several others made short speeches during the session, which was informal in the extreme.

Those Who Attended Meeting. Those present at the meeting were the governor, Secretary Charles S. Tingey, F. H. Griswold, representing the Chicago Tribune; Joseph Young, John Henry Smith, John Thornley, William Hayes, LeRoy Armstrong, Senator Herschel Bullen, Jr., of Logan, Walter Calderwood, Senator C. E. Marks, John C. Sharp, Adolph Richter, Senator J. A. Hyde of Lehi, Senator Henry Gardiner of Spanish Fork, speaker of the last session; Willard Hansen of Fielding, Professor Joseph F. Merrill, John C.

Mackay, O. J. Salisbury, C. E. Allen, Thomas R. Cutler and Mat Browning of Ogden.

The appointment of sub-committees will be made at once, as there is not much time before the exposition. Collections of fruits and agricultural products will be collected from all parts of the state, packed and sent on to Chicago at once. One of the chief items of expense will, of course, be freight charges and the floor space. Most of the fruit for the exhibits will be contributed. This will have to be arranged immediately, however, and meetings will likely be held this week with the governor to discuss further plans.

MRS. LESLIE CARTER. The announcement that Mrs. Leslie Carter has undertaken a new play of production in "Vasta Herne," the play by Edward Peppé, which will be produced for the first time in Salt Lake at the Salt Lake theatre next Monday night, is causing much interest among the theatre-going public. The play is a story of the present day. Many theatregoers voice the opinion that Mrs. Carter's play will appear to even greater advantage in her portrayal of a modern type of woman, than in her former semi-barbaric surroundings of her former successful productions.

ORPHEUM THEATRE. Prominent among many good acts at the Orpheum theatre this week is E. Ross, the dancing band leader, and the audience do not seem to be able to see or hear enough of him. He is a clever performer, the dancing band leader, and an exceptionally good dancer, and when dancing to his own accompaniment of the band he literally brings down the house. The Bison City quartet is one of the best seen in Salt Lake and when they are singing and dancing, they are becoming a popular attraction. Their comedy, their wit and their harmonious singing. The usual matinee will be today at 2:15 p. m.

BUNGALOW THEATRE. The Bungalow stock company has announced a revival of the old play, "Dora Thorne," made from the book of the same name, by Charlotte M. Brahm. This book was the precursor of a school of fiction and achieved a remarkable popularity, as did the play. Frankly a love story, it makes no pretensions to do more than tell a charming and idyllic love tale. It is being revived by stock companies in many of the great cities with tremendous success, the change from the more modern school of drama to the old-fashioned playgoers. This was the case in Philadelphia, where the version which Walter Arlington will use was a drawing card in the hands of the Keith stock company. The title role will be played by Miss Frances Brand, a full actress who has as yet had no opportunity to show her ability, and that of Lord Earle, the hero, by John Ince, an actor of great charm, who is becoming a popular favorite. The Arlington company is advancing greatly in popularity and all the week has been doing its best business with "The Cowboy and the Lady," which will continue the remainder of the week, ending Thursday and Saturday. "Dora Thorne" will open on Sunday night.

RALPH STUART'S SON HERE. Ralph Ramsay, a son of Ralph Stuart, is with "The Third Degree" at the Salt Lake theatre, and is making good as the "boy" husband. Salt Lake theatregoers will remember Mr. Stuart as having been leading man with the Mack stock company at the Bungalow theatre. During the last season, during the illness of Willard Mack, the Mack company was at its best when Mr. Stuart took charge of it and gave some notable productions. However, after Mr. Stuart's departure, the more capable members of the Mack company left Salt Lake and the management which took charge of Mr. Mack later has made it impossible for him to get his support into shape again.

COLONIAL THEATRE. Another capacity house greeted Emmet Devoy and company at the Colonial theatre last night. "In Dreamland," with its wonderful array of talent, electrical illusions and beautiful scenic art, will run all the week, with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday.

SALE FOR GRAND OPERA. Seats go on sale tomorrow morning at the Colonial theatre box office for subscribers to two or more of the operas to be given at this theatre by the International Grand Opera company, Thursday, Friday and Saturday matinee and night, Oct. 14, 15 and 16. Prices for this special engagement are as follows: Lower floor, $2.50 and $2; the balcony, $2, $1.50 and $1. The general sale opens on Monday morning, Oct. 11, and seats are sold by subscription and not paid for by that date will be sold with general sale. The operas to be sung here are the following: Thursday evening, "Fodora"; Friday evening, "Lucia di Lammermoor"; Saturday matinee, "Carmen"; Saturday night, "La Traviata" (Camille).

CONFERENCE IS TO END TODAY

Final Meetings in Tabernacle for Presentation of Authorities and Addresses.

PRIESTHOOD IN SESSION SPECIAL EXECUTIVE MEETING IS HELD IN ASSEMBLY HALL.

With a recess of one day in the general conference, yesterday was taken up with divisional meetings in assembly hall, Barratt hall and the Eighteenth ward meeting houses. Most of the conference visitors, excepting those attending the meetings of the officers of the Relief society and Primary association of the afternoon, took advantage of the opportunity to visit the state fair or to attend to business in the city.

At 10 o'clock in the morning there was a special priesthood meeting at assembly hall, to which only the general officers of the church and members of stake presidencies and ward bishops and a few others were admitted. The officers of the Y. L. M. I. A. met at the Eighteenth ward chapel at the same hour.

In the afternoon at 2 o'clock the officers of the Primary association met at Barratt hall, and at the same hour the officers of the Relief society met at assembly hall.

Bathsheba W. Smith, president of the General Relief society of the church, presided at the afternoon meeting in assembly hall, delivering a brief address. Mrs. Emmeline B. Wells, general secretary of the society, read her annual report, and Mrs. Clarissa S. Williams, general treasurer, made her report. After the instructions from the former on the subject of the Relief society, J. J. McCallan, at the piano and Willard Weihe with the violin contributed an enjoyable musical number, and Mrs. Lizzie Thomas Edwards, director of music for the general relief society, sang "Oh Loving Father."

No Counsellor Named. No action was taken by the Relief society towards filling the place of counsellor to the general president caused by the death of Mrs. Annie Taylor Hyde last spring, and it is not expected that this vacancy will be filled.

Mrs. Anna K. Hardy was appointed a member of the board, to succeed Mrs. Rebecca Little, who died recently. The following chairmen of special committees were also appointed yesterday: Building committee, Mrs. Emmeline B. Wells; peace committee, Mrs. Julia M. Smith; mothers' work, Mrs. Ida Smoot Dusenberry; nurse work, Mrs. Phoebe Y. Beattie; furnishing new building, Mrs. Clarissa S. Williams; press committee, Mrs. Carrie S. Thorne; Dr. Margaret C. Roberts was also appointed instructor of the school for nurses, a position she has held for several years.

The report of the general secretary showed that members of the general board had visited fifty-five stakes, and Mrs. Wells referred to the attendance of Mrs. Emily S. Richards and Mrs. Ida Smoot Dusenberry to the quinquennial convention of the International Council of Women at Toronto; the visit of Mrs. Carrie S. Thomas to the executive conference of the national council, and of the attendance of Mrs. Anne Merrill and Mrs. Julia M. Smith to the triennial convention of the National Council of Women at Seattle. The reception given to Mrs. Bathsheba W. Smith by the society on the occasion of her eighty-seventh birthday was also reported.

Report of Treasurer. The report of the treasurer included the building fund, expenses of the school for nurses, hospital fund, Lund home and the missionary fund, as well as the general expenses of the society.

Mrs. Bathsheba W. Smith, president of the society, extended her greetings to the officers and blessed them and their work, referring to her pleasant activity in the Relief society since she was elected president. During the year she has been able to visit many members, and saying that with the temple, the Relief society was her "home."

The report of Mrs. Beattie on the work of the school for nurses showed growth in efficiency of that institution. A change has been made whereby applicants may take the course on payment of $10 by the president of their local Relief society and signing a contract to donate forty days' work to the society under the direction of Mrs. Empey, the change being a reduction of the number of days of free work from fifty to forty, and the agreement to perform the same within one year, instead of two.

This report showed that with the completion of the quarters in the new building, the school would not be under the expense of hiring quarters. The society now has more than 400 nurses in the field.

Mrs. Ida Smoot Dusenberry delivered an interesting address on the Glory of Motherhood, taking Christ and Mary as the great example.

The address of Mrs. James on the study of lessons in ward meetings of the society advised the careful preparation of lessons in a systematic manner, bringing out the suggestion that the women were never too old to learn these lessons, which would increase their efficiency in the work of the society.

Closing Session Today. The semi-annual conference of the Mormon church will hold its closing sessions at the tabernacle today, and unless plans are changed suddenly, as last spring, there will be meetings at 10 in the morning and 2 in the afternoon.

The general officers of the church will be present and the suggestion that several changes would be made. Two of the vacancies to be filled are those caused by the death of George Reynolds of the first seven presidents of seventies, and A. Milton Mueser, one of the assistants to the church librarian. There are also vacancies on the general primary board, which may or may not be filled.

Effective means for systematizing the work of the Primary association and a change whereby there shall be no summer adjournment of the meetings in the various wards were discussed at a meeting of the officers of the Primary association at Barratt hall yesterday afternoon.

George F. Richards of the quorum of apostles addressed the women on the necessity of continuous work in the association. Miss Flora Belmont of Weber stake gave suggestions regarding the work of the association, illustrating how the stake officers could render aid to the ward officers in outlining the lessons for study. Mrs. Ballantyne of Cache stake spoke on the organization of the missionary classes for boys.

PANGUTCH LAND SURE TO SELL

Commissioners Aver Hatchtown Project Is One of Best in State.

AMERICAN PARTY NEWSPAPERS HAVE JUST LEARNED OF IT.

In their customary style of printing "news," the two American party papers have just become aware of the fact that an audit of the books of the state board of land commissioners is being made by J. A. Edwards, former state auditor. Mr. Edwards has been engaged on this work since June 18 last. He has been in the office every day, and no effort has been made to hide the fact that the books for years back are being audited. It is not the first time an audit of the books of the land board has been ordered, as Mr. Mont Fisher received $103 a month for six months in 1907 for this work.

"We cannot hand out $20,000 like the city of Salt Lake for a bunch of special auditors to tangle up the books, nor would we if we had that money," said W. D. Candland, chairman of the board, yesterday. "We have realized all along that an audit should be made, and Mr. Edwards to work as soon as he had the funds available. We are given only $25,000 a year to run the whole department. No irregularities have been found. We intend to have all the books audited as far back as 1896. It looks to me as if those American party papers are printing almost anything they can to have their readers forget about the Utahian church episode."

Members of the board declare the Hatchtown project to be one of the very best irrigation schemes in the state, and declare that these lands will sell without trouble as soon as the people of Utah and other states know the conditions there. In Garfield county, on land near the Hatchtown project, some of the best fruit and vegetables in the state are being raised.

"Even if the state land around Pangutch is not taken up, which is improbable," said Mr. Candland, "the money spent on the Hatchtown reservoir project is a good investment, as there are thousands of acres in Garfield, Sanpete and Millard counties which can get water from this reservoir. We will receive bids for the land at $30 an acre, which is a bargain, but there is no fear that the water from the reservoir will not be called for and that the state will not get its money from that project."

BIG IRRIGATION CANAL PLANNED

Promoter Seeks Water Rights to Reclaim Land Valued at $2,100,000.

With the granting of an application filed yesterday with the state engineer another big irrigation and reclamation project will be added to the already large number of such projects now being carried on in the state. The land to be irrigated is in Emery county, southeast of Hatch, an area of 90,000 acres. E. Warren Stock, an irrigation promoter, who has been successful in other projects, is the applicant for water rights.

Mr. Stock seeks to acquire the right to 800 cubic feet per second of the flow of Price river, which will be impounded in an immense reservoir, behind a rock dam. The length of the diverting channel will be about 500 miles. This great irrigation will be raised and water channeled. During the summer months, the water will be pumped from the reservoir and will radiate a number of smaller canals. The top of the main channel will be 40 feet, the bottom 18 feet and it will have an average depth of five feet of water.

The storage water will cover 800 acres at a point number of miles from Price. The mammoth dam will be 600 feet long, 100 feet high and will be constructed of loose rock. It is estimated that this dam will impound 65,000 acre feet of water.

By a system of weirs the stored water will be raised as high as needed. During the high waters in the spring and fall it will be possible to irrigate from the natural flow of the river.

Figuring the cost of the land at the average government valuation of $35 an acre for land in irrigation projects, the land to be reclaimed has a valuation of $2,100,000.
